

Make “Connections” April 2nd in Boston!

The theme of the NEPC 2009 Conference is “Connections”. Parking Operations cannot succeed in a vacuum. Now, more than ever, Parking Professionals are working with Transportation Systems, Urban & Institutional Planners, Financiers, Governmental Agencies, Consultants, etc. Our success, and possibly our survival will depend on how well we maintain these connections.

This conference will explore the various types of connections we’ll need to make in order to meet the challenges of the next couple of years.

Due to the economic challenges and budget cuts we’re all facing, we have reduced the conference to one day, and we have reduced both the conference registration fees and your annual dues – but we didn’t reduce the content! We’ve packed the day with two tracks of educational seminars, and we’re excited to announce that Shawn Conrad, the new Executive Director of the International Parking Institute, has agreed to give the keynote address and answer your questions.

You’re also invited to see the latest and greatest technology, as well as several cost saving measures being offered at this year’s Vendor’s Exposition.
